loaded with passengers at 6:30 Monday night and, passing through Paxton at high speed, had gone some two miles when the fireman saw masked men sliding down the coal in the glare from the open fire box door.

Repeated demands from the gang of desperadoes to open the mail door were refused, and the thugs faced a charge of dynamite under the front truck of the car. The explosion failed to damage the heavy steel coach and the detonation also failed to frighten those inside the fortress.

The robbers then fired their revolvers and sawed-off shotguns at the sheet sides of the coach, but the rattle of buckshot and bullets still failed to bring a surrender. After a consultation, the bandits placed a charge of dynamite alongside the door of the mail car. The explosion wrenched off the door. The mail clerks and the engine crew, who had barricaded themselves within the car, fired at the bandits, but the attackers were too far below the floor of the car to be hit. The robbers replied by throwing two bombs into the mail car, wrecking the interior and forcing the defenders to sink down behind their barricade. A fire brand thrown among the wreckage by the band set the debris afire and the defenders surrendered.

Seeing that those in the mail car were being aided by some of the passengers, some of the robbers turned their attention to the helpers and fired several shots.

MEMPHIS CONFERENCE

Methodists of the Memphis Conference are centering their interest in church affairs this week to the annual conference in session at McKenzie. Rev. L. D. Hamilton, pastor of the First Methodist church of this city and other Methodist ministers of this city left for that city Wednesday morning and evening.

It is understood that the local church anticipates no change in the pastorate and that Mr. Hamilton will be appointed to return to his post here for another year.

On next Monday Bishop Atkins will announce the changes made in presiding elders and preachers.

More than ordinary interest attaches to the 32nd session of the Memphis Conference, Methodist Episcopal Church, South, which opened Wednesday morning at McKenzie, Tenn. Besides the regular program, which is always looked forward to with keen delight, the meetings of old friends, the anticipation of going to new fields, the conference this year will elect delegates to the general conference next year at Hot Springs, Ark., in quadrennial session.

Bishop Atkins, who is presiding, has presided over the Memphis Conference many times.

McKenzie has made every preparation for the conference. The sessions are being held in the handsome Methodist church there, of which Rev. G. C. Pain is the pastor. The people of McKenzie have opened their homes to the members. As usual, the first two or three days were taken up with receiving reports from the presiding elders and the clerical members. On Sunday the annual conference sermon will be preached by Bishop Atkins. The pulpits of all the churches in McKenzie will be occupied by prominent Methodist ministers attending the conference.

The night meetings will be turned over to the various conference boards, including the Sunday school and the mission boards.

The Rev. Lud. H. Estes, of Memphis, is secretary of the conference.

The administration is manifesting considerable courage these days—the president has permitted it to be made public that he received a message from the king of England congratulating him upon his 56th year of his age. It would hardly have been good politics about this time at year to have done that; it might have effected the German and Irish vote.—Chattanooga Times.

BANDITS ROB TRAIN NEAR PAXTON, ILL.

A dozen bandits armed with pistols, shotguns and bombs, which they used freely, wounding several trainmen and mail clerks, Monday night held up the New Orleans Limited train on the Illinois Central railroad and with true wild west tactics, looted the mail car of all the registered mail and the valuables in the safe and then escaped in waiting automobiles, which were stationed two miles south of Paxton, Ill.

The train was first stopped on a bridge over a small stream by three bandits on the train, who crept to the engine cab over the tender and held up the engineer and fireman, made the fireman disconnect the mail and baggage car and drive further south, where the rest of the desperadoes helped in bombing, dynamiting and firing the mail car before it could be entered and looted.

The engineer and fireman at first hesitated to comply with the demands of the robbers, who crept over the tender into the cab, but when pistols were thrust into their faces and one of the thugs had hit the fireman over the head with a pistol, the trainmen complied. In dynamiting the safe the robbers set fire to the interior of the mail car. After the bandits had fled in a waiting automobile, the engine crew returned to the rest of their train, cut out the flaming mail car and proceeded to Champaign, the next division point.
